

Johane Janelle

Ever since Johane's childhood in the small Quebec village of Cap Sante, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, Johane has loved being in nature and capturing special moments and places on film. This passion for wild places brought her west on a backcountry horse trip in 1983, and from then on she was hooked on the west.

Her photography has graced the covers of dozens of equestrian magazines from across North America, in Journal articles, in books and museums. Her first collaboration with Wes was the publication of their first book, Portraits of the Bison in 2005, and then A Field Guide to Plains Bison in 2012.

Their new book, The Ecological Buffalo, is perhaps the best showcase of her work to date. With over 180 stunning photos, her talents are easily recognized. The presentation tonight features her photography from Florida to Alaska, from New England to the desert southwest and all across Canada.
